Brown bag seminars

Thursday 12th October 2017
12:30 – 14:30
Meeting Room – III floor, Via Verdi 26 Trento

GABRIELE BALLARINO
NAZARENO PANICHELLA

Geographical mobility and occupational achievement in contemporary Italy

Gabriele Ballarino is full professor of Economic Sociology in the University of Milan, where he teaches Economic Sociology and Labour Market, Education and Training. He received his Ph.D. in Sociology and Social Research from the University of Trento. His main research topic is the relation between educational systems and the economy, both at the micro and the macro level. He has published extensively on inequality of educational opportunities by social class, gender and ethnicity; vocational training and the labour market; occupational returns to education; the institutional changes of educational systems.

Nazareno Panichella is assistant professor of Economic Sociology at the University of Milan, where he teaches courses in economic sociology, social mobility and quantitative methods for social sciences. He received his Ph.D. in Sociology from the GSSPS of the University of Milan. His research interests involve inequality in educational opportunities, social mobility, educational returns, migration (both internal and international), family, fertility and labour market dynamics.