

UNIVERSITÀ
DI TRENTO

Dipartimento di
Sociologia e Ricerca Sociale

Docu Lab

Cathie Jo Martin (Boston University)

28th February 2024

02:00 p.m.

Poggi Room – 1st floor

Narratives of Schooling: Culture, computational methods, and cross-national variation

This seminar will consider the use of computational analysis in a mixed-methods research design. Computational analyses of literature are particularly useful in studying historical cultural frames and the ways that culture contributes to cross-national differences in institutional and policy development. This seminar will therefore focus on how to use computational methods in a research designs focusing on the study cultural influences.